

Letter of Recommendation

August 15, 2024

Lingesvaran

Deputy Director

Govtech

I am writing to recommend Daniel for the position of XXX at your organization. As Daniel's product manager during his 9-month DevOps internship with our team, I have had the pleasure of witnessing his skills and contributions firsthand.

Daniel exhibited strong proficiency in cloud solutions while working across multiple projects. As an agile and driven learner, he actively explores emerging toolsets with transformative potential. Exceptionally, he seeks to not only master the toolset, but to understand the driving force behind it. This ensured his solutions seamlessly integrate leading technologies that implement industry best practices into our tech stack.

What distinguishes Daniel is his talent for architecting elegant solutions that address both business needs and technical requirements. He delivers persuasive and well documented proposals that thoughtfully evaluate multiple solutions objectively. He exhibits astute system design thinking, accomodating for future growth while balancing cost and security. He identifies potential issues and develops contingencies before they occur.

Even as an intern, Daniel exhibits boldness and confidence in his work, unafraid to spearhead transformative initiatives, notably in security and automation, within our organization. His resourcefulness and self-sufficiency enabled him to autonomously drives all his initiatives to completion in multiple large-scale projects. He proactivity drives significant improvements to the lead time for changes every sprint.

Daniel showcases deep empathy and thoughtful consideration for all members involved during our discussions. His ability to network and communicate effectively extends across cross-functional teams. In the team, his genuine desire to help others fosters authenticity in all his interactions and contributes to a collaborative and supportive organizational culture.

If you're seeking a capable and visionary developer who can drive transformative initiatives within your organization, I wholeheartedly recommend Daniel. Please feel free to contact me if you require any further information.

Sincerely,

lingesvaran_palanisamy@tech.gov.sg

Lingesvaran